OF THE

GRIFFITH FAMILY:

The Descendants

OF

WILLIAM and SARAH MACCUBBIN GRIFFITH.

BY

R. R. GRIFFITH,

Of Baltimore.

BALTIMORE:

Press of William K. Boyle & Son.

P R E F A C E.

THE plan of this book needs no explanation, as a cursory examination will show it is only intended to make an enduring Record of the Ancestors of the Griffith Family. It is so arranged as to show the intermarriages with other families, the date of the marriages, of the births and names of children, and of the death of the various members. In a few instances only are presented sketches of the lives of any of the relatives.

In the Appendix will be found the wills of some, and notices of others, who seemed deserving of especial mention. He that looks herein for eulogy or especial landation of any one of the numerous family will be disappointed. If, however, he desires to find the name and date of birth or marriage, or to trace a genealogy, the book will aid him, and that is its principal purpose.

In accomplishing the bringing together of the record as presented in the book my self-imposed task is ended. It has been a pleasing, though laborious one. I now submit it, with much diffidence, and many misgivings as to the manner of its make-up, to the kind and sympathetic judgment of those who are personally or otherwise interested in its contents, feeling assured that I will meet with no critic more severe than I have myself been.

R. R. GRIFFITH.

December 19th, 1892.

INTRODUCTION.

THE author has endeavored to bring from out the past the remembrance of those whose blood flows through his own veins, not with any vain-glorious idea of showing a long line of noble ancestors, but with the intent of knowing to whom he is related, and showing the interlacing and weaving in of the Griffith family with families of other names. Although it was with him a labor of love at the beginning, he found as he progressed in the execution of his task, that it was a very arduous undertaking.

In order to get together the necessary material, he has been compelled to search the musty records of centuries past, and to correspond with numerous persons, often with very unsatisfactory results.

The ancestors of the family, with a few exceptions, do not seem to have taken much interest in public affairs, so that not much could be gathered of their history from accounts of State transactions. They seemed to have passed tranquil, quiet and unambitious lives. That they were born and buried make up the most part of their histories.

The records of the Parishes of St. Ann, St. Margaret Westminster, All Hallows, St. James and Queen Caroline, where the names of some of them are enrolled, show that they led useful lives, and were interested not only in temporal but also in spiritual affairs. Some of the family were men of more than ordinary ability, engaged in public affairs, and several of them were soldiers in the Revolution. One of them fought under La Fayette, who, when he visited this country, recognized and embraced him. So far as the author has been able to trace out their histories, there are no blots upon their characters, and the escutcheon of the family is untarnished by deeds of shame or dishonor. This honorable name is one which their descendants may feel proud to study and to preserve unsullied to the latest posterity.

It cannot be expected that a book of this character can be altogether free from errors, and this the author does not claim. But he has labored for several years in the face of many difficulties to endeavor to make the book a true and correct record of what it is intended to be, and in this he may not have entirely succeeded.

The sur-name of the family, "Griffith," is said to be derived from the Welsh word Gryffydd, usually given as a baptismal or Christian name, signifying "Great Faith." And from the preamble to the wills of some of the principal members of the family, (inserted in the Appendix,) faith in the future seems to have been a distinguishing characteristic.

Though the record presented is apparently a meagre one, and as is said by Longfellow in reference to a similar book, reminds one of "walking through a grave-yard and reading the names, with date of birth and death, upon the tombstones," yet the author hopes that in looking it over there are some of our ancestors whose names will recall a history that may be traditional in the family, of some noble traits of character or worthy actions done by them, that may incite their descendants to emulate their examples.

That we have a noble lineage in the sense of a name which is acquired from the deeds of some ancestor in the far distant parts, might not be true, but as our ancestors lived conscientious and useful lives and bore without reproach the grand old name of gentleman, so we have a lineage as high and noble as that of any prince or lord.

There are some of the family who are entitled to a larger space and more extended notice than others, and the author therefore offers no apology for inserting a sketch of some of those whom he considers worthy of especial mention, we therefore notice the following:

SARAH GRIFFITH was the daughter of John Maccubbin of Anne Arundel Co., (a scion of an ancient Scotch family) and Elinor his wife. A long and patient search of the Colonial Records has failed to reveal to us the maiden name of and parentage of Elinor.

NICHOLAS GREENBERRY and ANNE his wife were married prior to their immigration to America. They arrived in Maryland in 1674 in the ship "Constant Friendship," bringing with them two children, Charles and Katharine. Two others were born to them after their arrival in the Province. Nicholas, who died young, and Elizabeth who married Mr. Robert Goldsborough, Sep. 2, 1697. Nicholas Greenberry took up a tract of land on the north side of the Severn River, at its mouth, now known as the "Greenberry Point Farm," where he resided until his death in 1697, the 17th Dec. Ann, his wife, died the 27th of April, 1698. They were both buried in the family burying grounds on his estate, and their tomb-stones, in a fair state of preservation, may still be seen in that portion of the Greenberry Point Farm, now owned and occupied by Mr. Charles E. Remsen.

He was one of the Commissioners appointed under the Act of the Assembly of Nov. 1683, to lay out towns, "At the Towne Lands at Proctors, at South River on Coll. Burgis' Land, (London Town) and at Herring Creeke on the Towne Land."

A few words next as to the lineage of JOHN HOWARD, Jr., whose daughter Katherine married Orlando Griffith, the progenitor of a host of descendants, whose names are herein recorded.

It has now been ascertained beyond a reasonable doubt, that the founders of the Howard Family of Maryland were five brothers, Cornelius, John, Matthew, Samuel, and Philip Howard.

In 1662 the first four named had a warrant issued to them from the Land Office of Maryland for 900 acres of land, and the Record distinctly states that they were brothers. Cornelius, in his will, proved in 1680, refers to his brothers, John, Samuel, and Philip Howard. Samuel Howard, in his will, proved in 1703, mentions his "cousins," Hannah Hammond, the daughter of Philip Howard, his deceased brother; and Sarah Brice, widow of John Worthington, wife of John Brice, and daughter of Matthew Howard, his deceased brother.

JOHN HOWARD, SR., married 1st, (prior to 1667) Susanna, widow of Charles Stevens of Anne Arundel Co., by whom he had issue, one son, John Howard, Jr. After the death of his first wife, he married Eleanor Maccubbin, the widow of John Maccubbin (subsequent to the year 1686) by whom he had no issue.

JOHN HOWARD, JR., only son of John Howard, Sr., married 1st, a daughter of Richard Warfield of Anne Arundel Co., and sister of Richard Alexander, and Elinor, who married Caleb Dorsey. By this marriage he had issue, three children, Benjamin, Absolute and Rachel. After the death of his first wife, he married Katherine, the widow of Henry Ridgely (son of Henry) and daughter of Nicholas and Ann Greenberry, by whom he had issue, one daughter, Katherine Howard, who married Orlando Griffith. (See will of John Howard, Jr., page 281.)

CAPT. JOHN WORTHINGTON, the first of his family of whom we find mention in the Colonial records, was born in the year 1650, and died in the year 1701. On the farm of Mr. R. Tilghman Brice, on the North Bank of the Severn River, nearly opposite the City of Annapolis, immediately in front of his residence, is an immense stone slab bearing the following inscription: "Here lieth interred the body of Capt. John Worthington, who departed this life April the 9th, 1701, aged 51 years." This stone bears the death's head and cross bones, frequently thus used at that period, and after the lapse of nearly two centuries the inscription is perfectly legible.

There are many circumstances going to show that the Worthington family were residents of the Province between the years 1640 and 1650. Capt. John Worthington married Sarah, the daughter of Matthew Howard and Sarah Dorsey. The issue of the marriage were John, Thomas, William, Sarah, and Charles, the last named born after the death of his father. After the death of her first husband, Mrs. Worthington married John Brice, of Anne Arundel Co., and became the mother of a large family. The Colonial records bear evidence of his having led an active and useful life. He is mentioned as gentleman, merchant, planter, member of the House of Burgesses, Justice of the Peace, and Captain of the Hundred in which he lived, on the Severn River and Chesapeake Bay. The records of St. Margaret's Westminster Parish contains the names of his children, who were all baptized at an early age.

COPY OF A LETTER FROM A GRANDSON OF CAPTAIN
SAMUEL GRIFFITH.

ALEXANDRIA, Sep. 27, 1891.

MR. R. R. GRIFFITH,

Baltimore, Md.

Dear Sir:—When I met you in the City of Baltimore some three or four weeks ago, I chanced to mention one or two incidents in connection with the History of your relative and my Paternal Grand Father, Capt. Samuel Griffith, formerly of Montgomery County, State of Maryland. You were aware that he was an active participant in the War of '76. I have often heard him relate, when I was a boy, incidents connected with his Army life, he was attached to the corps, or command, of Genl. LaFayette, and was with him at the Battles of Germantown, and Brandywine. In one of which, he was wounded, do not remember which, or the order of precedence, of course the last one fought, was the one in which he was wounded. Have heard him relate, that his Company of 90 men, formed part of the command selected to storm a "Chevaux d'frieze," erected by the Enemy, they were driven back, with terrible disaster: his Co. of 90 men, being reduced to (16) sixteen, able to answer at Roll call. This wonderful reduction in number showing the desperate character of the assault, made upon the works of the Enemy. Have often heard him express his admiration of the character of La Fayette. When La Fayette visited the U. S. in 1825, I was school boy, at St. Johns College, Annapolis. The State Legislature being in session, the Govr. of the State invited La Fayette to visit the old city rendered historic, by its having been, at one time, the seat of the "Continental Congress;" which was accepted. My Father the Revd. Alfred Griffith, was at that time Chaplain of the Senate, knowing his Father's regard for his old Commander, he sent for him, to come to Annapolis, to again greet his old companion in Arms. Although but a small boy, some 12 years of age, the grand Pageant of the reception, still lives, fresh in my memory. The carpeted walks leading to the Capitol, from the base of the Hill, to the old, and stately building crowning its summit, on either side of the avenue leading to the grand colonnaded entrance, stood beautiful children, principally girls, clad in white, and crowned with flowers, whilst in their hands, they carried boquets, and baskets of flowers. And as the old Hero, supported on the one side, by his son, and staff, on the other, by the Governor, and State officials, advanced up the improvised isle, the children broke into one grand Chorus, of Hail to the Chief, strewing the whole pathway with Flowers, under the old Collonade. Fronting the doorway, stood on one side the Members of the House of Representatives, on the other side, the State Senators. Having attained the Floor of the Portico, the Genl. was introduced to the members of both Houses. After the formal reception, the members resumed their positions, whilst prominent citizens pressed forward, to be presented by the Governor, and then my Grand Father, the Governor on his presentation recalling to the Genl's mind, the battles in which he had fought, in a moment the two old men, as if carried back, to the scenes of their young manhood, rushed into each others arms and wept, like two children. This scene whilst it affected all, who witnessed it, made an impression on my young mind, which can never be erased. In after years, I mentioned it to my Grand Father, and reference to it, always excited strong emotion in him.
